Ever wonder how to teach your children that money doesn't grow on trees? Money may not grow on trees, but lemons do! With Beyond the Traditional Lemonade Stand: Creative Business Stand Plans for Children of All Ages, you can help your kids not only turn lemons into lemonade, but also turn lemonade into money. Listing the materials needed for the business stand, a basic overview of the business, the recommended age for kids to be while hosting that particular stand, the target audience, recommended locations to host the stand, and a brief section on what that particular stand may teach the kids who are operating it, this book is the parent's ultimate resource of creative business stand plans for children of any age at any time of the year. The fifty-three stands listed provide a source of family fun, education, and income for the reader's children. The businesses in the book can be used for personal profit or as fundraisers and can easily be adapted for children of any age to host.

Are you ready to help your kid develop an entrepreneurial mindset? By incorporating it into their everyday life and using activities, games, quizzes and other fun and interactive tools, your child will build the strong financial foundation needed to make smart decisions as they grow.

Girls mean business in the third novel of this series about friendship and entrepreneurship that Katherine Applegate, Newbery Medal-winning author of The One and Only Ivan, calls "A great read!" All four friends in the Startup Squad want to raise money—but when they can't agree on what business to start next, they strike off on their own. Didi's idea seems perfect: making place cards for a wedding. But after the wedding planner gets sick, Didi finds herself in charge of everything—and then the caterer cancels and the band goes missing! Didi's business is turning from a dream to a disaster. Will the Startup Squad come together in time to save the wedding? Each book in this middle-grade series by Brian Weisfeld and Nicole C. Kear also features tips for kids starting or running their first businesses, plus a profile of a real-life tween girl CEO. An Imprint Book Praise for Startup Squad: Face the Music: "Filled with flawed characters and moments of growth, including lessons on trial and error, practicing customer service, and learning from mistakes, this drama-filled, fast-paced, entertaining read places friendship and hard work at its heart ... An enjoyable and diverse story highlighting friendship, entrepreneurship, and perseverance." —Kirkus Reviews

Caterina creates the most unique lemonade stand in the neighborhood in this sunny second book of an endearing new series, just right for fans of Max & Ruby and Ladybug Girl. Caterina loves making lists and planning big, creative projects, and this time she's planning a lemonade stand — the perfect summer pastime. She's hoping to earn enough money for a new scooter, but finds that she's not the only one in town with the lemonade idea. Everybody seems to be selling the refreshing treat, so how can Caterina's stand truly stand out? Leave it to our hard-working, artistic bird (with a little help from her faithful younger brother, Leo) to make a joyous success of her plan. Readers will want to try Caterina's bright idea, or maybe come up with a great one of their own. And they'll cheer the surprise ending -- a happy one for Caterina and especially for sweet Leo.

Evan Treski, who is people-smart, and his younger sister Jesse, who is math-smart, battle it out through competing lemonade stands, each trying to be the first to earn one hundred dollars. Reprint.
