Hell—as his wife. I'd honestly rather have a root canal without sedation than marry anyone, least of all a surly—even if damnably attractive—demon. But I'm bound to the contract stupid Teenage Me made with Azazel when I accidentally summoned and trapped him into marriage, to be consummated if I were still single at twenty-five. I'd forgotten all about it. He hasn't. And now he's here to claim me. Neither of us is thrilled about this marriage-of-inconvenience, but what I hate even more than the idea of being married...is being ignored. So when Azazel intends to park me out of sight and mind at the other end of his estate in Hell, I make it my newly eternal life's mission to be as much of a real

And the beautiful fae whose life he saves may be at the center of it all. Fae bounty hunter Isa's days are numbered. The death curse she's stalled will soon kill her, unless she ends the bloodline of the one who cursed her. And of course the last living descendant turns out to be the striking male to whom she now owes a life debt. Even worse, Basil has the nerve to unapologetically fall in love with her—and make her crave what she can never have... his kind. Now, ten years later, she discovers that the elusive dark protector who has covertly guarded her for years is in fact the shadow demon she once saved. Determined to face her past, she confronts him to find out if sparing his life was right--or whether he's the biggest mistake she's ever made. Thorne has never forgotten the girl whose inexplicable act of kindness saved his life. For years, he's been her silent, stealthy protector, not daring to act on his desire for her. When Anjali stubbornly wiggles her way into his life--and further into his heart--he fights the passion sparking between them--for the secret he keeps holds the power to destroy her.
